Mr. Reeves mentioned that there were some misleading numbers for the month of February due to some outstanding invoices and asked Interim Director James Welch to elaborate on the issue and there was a brief discussion about it. He stated that an effort to recover the invoices had been for the most part successful, and that with the effort of the Commission to be service oriented the expectation was that the service would be provided and that the industry would be cooperative in paying for it. However, the industry is such that when a business fails and they owe the Commission, the funds become unrecoverable.
